WITH AWARD . . . Karl Kott (seated), president of Kott & Smolar Ford, Ltd., and Frank J. Smolar, vice president, display the Ford Motor Co.'s highest award in the field of customer relations. The award to the Wilmington firm is based on the ratio of customer complaints to sales volume. Kott & Smolar received the only such award in the Harbor Area. "We would like to take this opportunity to thank our many local friends and customers, along with all our employees who helped make this award possible and pledge to continue our efforts to maintain good customer relations," the two men commented.

Check Heating Equipment Before Putting into Use

Cooler months ahead mean attention should be focused on the heating appliances in the home, Robert Lucas, chief of the Torrance Fire Department, reminded residents today.

Accumulations of lint and other debris from around the home are especially dangerous, Chief Lucas warned.

He listed the following rules for re-activating home heaters:

- All heating units need frequent cleaning and should be checked at least once each year by a professional.
- Flue pipes should be kept clean, hole free, and well supported.
- Make sure there is sufficient space between heating appliances and such combustible materials as draperies, sofas, and similar items.
- Check electric plugs and cords for safety in use.
- Have the fireplace equipped with a screen and make sure the chimney is clean.

Kanine Korner

By Francis X. Lohmann

A dog is composed of fur, sometimes long and sometimes not so long and it comes in assorted colors. Some of these fur coats are pretty and others are not so pretty, but regardless of color or beauty, they have been found many, many times pressed closely to the body of a small child lost in the woods.

steadfast loyalty, the staunch defense of you and your home, and a sincere friend until that "engine" dies.

What is a dog? A dog is something that offers you the highest values in life money cannot buy.

BREED OF THE WEEK — Basenji . . . The Basenji hails from South Africa and his popularity in America is gaining by leaps and bounds! The American Kennel Club recognized the breed in 1943. There is definite evidence that the Basenji was known in Egypt 5000 years ago, vying with the Afghan Hound and the Saluki for longevity. The Basenji has changed very little, if any, in appearance since his beginning in the Congo Basin.

The unique feature of the Basenji is the fact that he is barkless and never yaps or bays. This does not mean that the breed is mute. The Basenji makes a pelating sort of chortling noise to indicate pleasure or a plaintive cry to alert a beloved master of impending danger. The Basenji's typical expression is one of bright, puzzled interest. He is companionable and playful and his short, clean coat makes him a most desirable house dog.

A DOG IS composed of a nose, usually quite wet; it nudges your hand for various reasons. Perhaps, to ask you to go for a walk or to ask his young master to go out and play in the yard or even possibly, to tell you "not to worry because I am here with you."

A dog is composed of four paws, some quite tiny and dainty and others are as huge as baseball mitts, but regardless of their size, they willingly follow you to the ends of the earth if necessary.

A dog is composed of a tail, often only a small stub, sometimes pretty long and at other times ridiculous looking — but they all have one thing, "I love you dear master."

THE BREED has great natural hunting ability and particularly keen scenting powers. Since the breed's official AKC recognition, the Basenji has acquired many supporters in this country and a large number of good specimens have been bred and imported in recent years.

The Basenji tips the scales at about 22 pounds and in height 16 inches. That's 30 barks for now. Be columnizing you next week. HAPPY THANKSGIVING TO ALL.

INSIDE the coat of fur are the same vital organs that human beings have and the heart is the "engine."

That "engine" inside the fur coat offers you sincere love, the deepest of devotion, gratitude for the smallest effort on your part.

MY TREASURED READERS.
